This screensaver takes you into an asteroid mining base. On your way down to the main floors, you'll see various robots and processing equipment. When you reach the main floor, it looks like you've entered a huge refinery. It's on the sides of the main floor that you'll see mining ships filled with ore and ready for transport. Each mining ship is driven by a mining transport craft. All of this mining process takes place inside a huge mothership. You have the ability to configure the screensaver settings. The screensaver allows you to activate the automatic scrolling, place vehicle screensavers in each tab, and even launch a new screensaver when a mothership disappears. The screensaver also features a Blade Runner-esque ambient sound along with three types of cool particles. Getting

I finally had some time this evening to explore my Saab Imagine XT, and download a few maps. My experience has been fairly impressive, one that I would expect from a state-of-the-art, tri-power, supercharged super sedan. I felt the "overachiever" build quality when I first started the vehicle, and its aggressive appearance has received many compliments from my friends. The performance is notable for being such a tall performer on a technical level, but is best described as "perpetual motion." The engine does not

What's New in the Asteroid Mining Base Screensaver?

When man first left Earth behind, the aliens came. Extraterrestrials who were not fond of our atmosphere and unruly lifestyle. They tried to force us to leave, we refused, the war started and it lasted for almost six long years. The war ended when a group of men and women escaped the mothership and landed on a barren planet. Their intention: to build a base where we could enjoy the luxuries of life on Earth! The screensaver features a 3D robot miner digging our precious asteroids. After the diligent miner digs out the ore, the ore is transported to the processing facility. This is where the real action begins. The facility is a huge space refinery with so many different machinery in it. The miner moves its precious ore through this facility and deposits them into the storage canisters.
