It basically uses curl to log into a website and then generates the text of a page for a form. However, whenever the page it generates fails to log into the site correctly, then instead of failing the script, it does a successful log in and then does the following: Page rendered! No, this is the original page that was requested, and then redirected to a blank page.

How do I redirect the page to be blank? Here's my code: if (strlen($data['url'])) { $content = $this->generatePage($this->redirect_url, $data); if (!$this->error) { header('Location: '.$this->generateUrl($data['url'])); } //If error, instead of redirect if (strlen($data['url'])) { $this->curl->fail($data['url']); } } A: try like this if (strlen($data['url'])) { $content = $this->generatePage($this->redirect_url, $data); header('Location: '.$this->generateUrl($data['url'])); if (!$this->error) { $this->curl->fail($data['url']); } } #!/usr/bin/env python # encoding: utf-8 """ name: w3tc """ from lib.w3c_testcase import W3CTestCase from lib.utils.StringTemplate import st from lib.utils.request.request
